BANK OF AMERICA, N.A.,

Case No. 2:14-CV-885 JCM (GWF)

Plaintiff(s),

ORDER

V.

SAMUEL R. BAILEY, et al.,

Defendant(s).

Presently before the court is defendant Samuel Bailey's motion to dismiss and to expunge lis pendens. (Doc. # 9). Plaintiff Bank of America, N.A., ("BOA") filed a response, (doc. # 21), and defendant filed a reply, (doc. # 24).

I. Background

17       The instant action is a dispute over deeds of trust encumbering real property located at 18       4850 Impressario Court, Las Vegas, Nevada 89149 (“the Impressario property”).

On December 17, 2008, then-owner Paul Aguilar (a named defendant) refinanced the Impressario property through Countrywide Bank, FBS, (“Countrywide”) for $400,000.00. Countrywide secured its loan via a deed of trust recorded against the property on December 17, 2008.

On January 23, 2010, Aguilar refinanced the Impressario property by obtaining a loan for $396,459.00 from BOA. Aguilar used the loan proceeds to satisfy the outstanding balance owed on the Countrywide loan. The BOA loan was secured via a deed of trust, which BOA did not

1 immediately record in the official records.<sup>1</sup> Countrywide recorded a substitution of trustee and 2 reconveyance on February 2, 2010.

3 On June 25, 2010, Silver State Steel Group, Inc., (“Silver State”) obtained a small business 4 loan from Meadows Bank for $500,000.00. Aguilar and Bailey are the two largest shareholders of 5 Silver State. In addition to granting Meadows Bank a security interest in Silver State’s assets, 6 Aguilar offered additional security for the loan in the form of a deed of trust recorded against the 7 Impressario property.

8 On November 17, 2010, Aguilar again refinanced the Impressario property by obtaining a 9 loan from Franklin America Mortgage Company (“Franklin”) in the amount of $397,475.00.
 10 Aguilar used the loan proceeds to satisfy the outstanding balance owed on the BOA loan. The 11 Franklin loan was secured by a deed of trust recorded against the property on December 1, 2010.

12 On December 13, 2012, Franklin assigned its rights and interests in its deed of trust to BOA 13 through an assignment. On June 6, 2013, Meadows Bank assigned its rights and interests in its 14 deed of trust to Bailey through an assignment.

15 Plaintiff filed suit on June 6, 2014. (Doc. # 1). Plaintiff requests declaratory judgment 16 establishing that BOA’s security interest is superior to Bailey’s, and to quiet title on the 17 Impressario property. Defendant filed the instant motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim and 18 to expunge lis pendens on February 17, 2015. (Doc. # 9).

19 II. Legal Standard

20 a. 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss

21 A court may dismiss a plaintiff’s complaint for “failure to state a claim upon which relief 22 can be granted.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6). A properly pled complaint must provide “[a] short and 23 plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(2); 24 Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007). While Rule 8 does not require detailed 25 factual allegations, it demands more than “labels and conclusions” or a “formulaic recitation of the 26 elements of a cause of action.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (citation omitted).

27
 28 <sup>1</sup> BOA recorded the deed of trust on October 21, 2011.

1           “Factual allegations must be enough to rise above the speculative level.” Twombly, 550
 2 U.S. at 555. Thus, to survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter 3 to “state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.” Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678 (citation omitted).

4           In Iqbal, the Supreme Court clarified the two-step approach district courts are to apply 5 when considering motions to dismiss. First, the court must accept as true all well-pled factual 6 allegations in the complaint; however, legal conclusions are not entitled to the assumption of truth.
 7 Id. at 678-79. Mere recitals of the elements of a cause of action, supported only by conclusory 8 statements, do not suffice. Id.

9           Second, the court must consider whether the factual allegations in the complaint allege a 10 plausible claim for relief. Id. at 679. A claim is facially plausible when the plaintiff’s complaint 11 alleges facts that allow the court to draw a reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the 12 alleged misconduct. Id. at 678.

13           Where the complaint does not permit the court to infer more than the mere possibility of 14 misconduct, the complaint has “alleged – but it has not shown – that the pleader is entitled to 15 relief.” Id. at 679 (internal quotations omitted). When the allegations in a complaint have not 16 crossed the line from conceivable to plausible, plaintiff’s claim must be dismissed. Twombly, 550 17 U.S. at 570.

18           The Ninth Circuit addressed post-Iqbal pleading standards in Starr v. Baca, 652 F.3d 1202 19 (9th Cir. 2011). The Starr court held,

20           First, to be entitled to the presumption of truth, allegations in a complaint or 21 counterclaim may not simply recite the elements of a cause of action, but must 22 contain sufficient allegations of underlying facts to give fair notice and to enable 23 the opposing party to defend itself effectively. Second, the factual allegations that 24 are taken as true must plausibly suggest an entitlement to relief, such that it is not 25 unfair to require the opposing party to be subjected to the expense of discovery and 26 continued litigation.

27           Id. at 1216.

28           b. Motion to expunge lis pendens

29           To survive a motion to expunge a lis pendens attached to real property, the party who 30 recorded the lis pendens can demonstrate that it is likely to prevail on the underlying action. Nev.
 31 Rev. Stat. § 14.015. Alternatively, the recording party can demonstrate a fair chance of success on

1 the merits and that it would suffer hardship in the event of the transfer of property that is greater 2 than the hardship suffered by defendant resulting from the notice of pendency. Id.

3       III. Discussion

4           a. Motion to dismiss

5              i. Lien holder priority

6       Defendant argues that plaintiff's cause of action does not state a claim upon which relief 7 can be granted because the Meadows deed of trust was recorded before the Franklin deed of trust.
 8 Therefore, defendant argues that his interest, arising from the Meadows deed of trust, is superior 9 to plaintiff's interest, arising from the Franklin deed of trust.

10      Plaintiff responds that the complaint states a claim upon which relief can be granted 11 because plaintiff plausibly alleges a superior interest in the property through its complaint. Plaintiff 12 contends that the doctrine of equitable subrogation applies to the instant case. Plaintiff asserts the 13 Franklin deed of trust arose from satisfaction of a prior encumbrance that held a priority position 14 over the Meadows encumbrance. Therefore, plaintiff argues that the Franklin deed of trust is 15 superior to the Meadows deed of trust, as Franklin assumed the prior lien holder's priority position.
 16 Plaintiff claims that since BOA's interest arises from the Franklin deed of trust, it is superior to 17 defendant's interest, arising from the Meadows deed of trust.

18      In Nevada, “[a]ny assignment of the beneficial interest under a deed of trust must be 19 recorded.” Nev. Rev. Stat. 106.210. However, prior to 2011, recordation was not a prerequisite to 20 obtaining effective assignment of a deed of trust. See Edelstein v. Bank of N.Y. Mellon, 286 P.3d 21 249, 254 n.5 (Nev. 2012). “[T]he purpose of recording a beneficial interest under a deed of trust 22 [prior to 2011 was] to provide ‘constructive notice . . . to all persons.’” Id. at 259; see also Foust 23 v. Wells Fargo, N.A., No. 55520, 2011 WL 3298915, at *2 (Nev. July 29, 2011) (“Although a party 24 may record a deed of trust, recordation is not necessary for the assignment to be effective and 25 operates simply to give notice.”).

26      Nevada is a race notice state, holding as a general rule that priority between two liens 27 recorded by bona fide encumbrancers depends on which lien was recorded first in time. Buhecker 28

1       v. R.B. Peterson & Sons, Constr. Co., 929 P.2d 937, 939 (Nev. 1996) (citing Nev. Rev. Stat.
 2       111.325). Nevada's statutory recording act provides,

3       Every conveyance of real property within this state hereafter made, which shall not 4       be recorded as provided in this chapter, shall be void as against any subsequent 5       purchaser, in good faith and for a valuable consideration, of the same real property, 6       or any portion thereof, where his or her own conveyance shall be first duly 7       recorded.

8       Nev. Rev. Stat. 111.325. However, “[a] subsequent purchaser with notice, actual or constructive, 9       of an interest in property superior to that which he is purchasing is not a purchaser in good faith, 10      and is not entitled to the protection of the recording act.” Huntington v. Mila, Inc., 75 P.3d 354, 11      356 (Nev. 2003).

12      Equitable subrogation is an exception to race notice. In Houston v. Bank of Am. Fed. Sav. Bank, 78 P.3d 71 (Nev. 2003), the Nevada Supreme Court adopted as controlling the view of 13      equitable subrogation illustrated in the Restatement Third of Property: Mortgages. 78 P.3d at 74; 14      see Restatement Third of Property: Mortgages § 7.6. Therefore, under Nevada law, 15      [A] mortgagee will be subrogated when it pays the entire loan of another as long as 16      the mortgagee “was promised repayment and reasonably expected to receive a 17      security interest in the real estate with the priority of the mortgage being discharged, 18      and if subrogation will not materially prejudice the holders of intervening interests 19      in the real estate.”

20      78 P.3d at 74 (citing Restatement Third of Property: Mortgages § 7.6(a)(4)).

21      Courts assume that a refinancing mortgagee expects to receive equal priority to the 22      mortgage being discharged. Id. This assumption is overcome only where there is affirmative proof 23      that the mortgagee intended to subordinate its priority to an intervening interest. Id. Further, “[a]n 24      intervening lien holder will not be materially prejudiced by the application of equitable subrogation 25      because the intervening lien holder will remain in the same position [as before the senior obligation 26      was discharged].” Id. at 74-75.

27      The instant motion to dismiss presents two questions: has the plaintiff offered enough 28      information to plausibly allege that the first BOA deed of trust<sup>2</sup> held a priority position to the 29      Meadows deed of trust? If so, has the plaintiff offered enough information to plausibly allege that

---

1 the doctrine of equitable subrogation imputed BOA's priority lien holder position to the Franklin 2 deed of trust?

3                           A. The BOA deed of trust

4                         The first BOA deed of trust was executed between BOA and Aguilar on January 23, 2010, 5 securing Aguilar's obligations under his refinancing note. BOA did not record the deed of trust in 6 the official records until October 21, 2011. On February 2, 2010, Countrywide filed a substitution 7 of trustee and reconveyance related to the BOA refinancing transaction.

8                         Prior to the revision of Nevada Revised Statute 106.210 in 2011, BOA could obtain a 9 transferred interest in real property without the transfer being recorded. See Edelstein v. Bank of 10 N.Y. Mellon, 286 P.3d 249, 254 n.5 (Nev. 2012). Therefore, BOA had a cognizable interest in the 11 Impressario property prior to execution of the Meadows deed of trust on July 1, 2010. See id.

12 Plaintiff's complaint alleges that Meadows had actual knowledge of BOA's interest in the 13 Impressario property upon creation of the deed of trust encumbering the property as collateral for 14 the Meadows loan. Actual knowledge serves as notice of a prior interest in the property, and thus 15 precludes Meadows's interest from assuming priority under the recording act. See Huntington v.
 16 Mila, Inc., 75 P.3d 354, 356 (Nev. 2003). Taking the factual allegations in the complaint as true, 17 it is plausible that BOA's interest in the property held priority over Meadows's interest at the time 18 of the Meadows loan.

19                           B. The Franklin deed of trust

20                         Aguilar refinanced his home by obtaining a loan from Franklin on November 17, 2010.
 21 The loan was secured by a deed of trust recorded on December 1, 2010. The proceeds of the loan 22 satisfied the outstanding balance owed on the January, 2010 BOA loan.

23                         Nowhere in plaintiff's complaint does it allege that Franklin intended to subordinate its 24 mortgage interest to Meadows. Therefore, this court assumes that Franklin expected to receive 25 equal priority to the BOA deed of trust when it satisfied BOA's interest in the property. See 26 Houston v. Bank of Am. Fed. Sav. Bank, 78 P.3d 71, 74 (Nev. 2003). Further, Meadows was not 27 prejudiced because it was no worse off than before the senior obligation was discharged. See id. at 28

1 74-75. Taking the factual allegations in the complaint as true, it is plausible that Franklin's interest 2 in the Impressario property held priority over Meadows's interest.

3 Plaintiff alleges that since BOA's interest in the property arises from the Franklin loan, it 4 holds priority over Bailey's interest in the property arising from the Meadows loan. Plaintiff has 5 stated a claim upon which relief can be granted. It is of no consequence at this stage that Bailey 6 acquired title through a foreclosure sale. If BOA holds priority, then a sale by Bailey, as 7 Meadows's successor, to himself would not wipe out BOA's interest. Therefore, dismissal under 8 Rule 12(b)(6) is improper.

9                   ii. Naming "Doe" defendants

10 Defendant asks the court to dismiss the complaint based on the naming of "Doe" 11 defendants. Plaintiff responds that the naming of "Doe" defendants is not alone sufficient to 12 support dismissal of a claim.

13 "[W]ithin the Ninth Circuit, where fictitious pleading is certainly disfavored, see, e.g., 14 Craig v. United States, 413 F.2d 854, 856 (9th Cir. 1969), there is not a comprehensive prohibition.
 15 See, e.g., Lindley v. General Elec. Co., 780 F.2d 797, 799-800 (9th Cir. 1986). The Ninth Circuit 16 has recognized that "situations arise . . . where the identity of alleged defendants will not be known 17 prior to the filing of a complaint" and "the plaintiff should be given an opportunity through 18 discovery to identify the unknown defendants, unless it is clear that discovery would not uncover 19 the identities, or that the complaint would be dismissed on other grounds." Gillespie v. Civiletti, 20 629 F.2d 637, 642 (9th Cir. 1980).

21 The naming of "Doe" defendants by itself is an insufficient basis for dismissal. See 22 Gillespie, 629 F.2d at 642.

23                   b. Motion to expunge lis pendens

24 BOA has a fair chance of success on the merits in this case, as described above. BOA 25 would suffer serious hardship if its lis pendens were expunged, as defendant could attempt to 26 transfer the property. If the lis pendens is expunged and defendant transfers the property, the 27 transfer could create a bona fide purchaser and extinguish BOA's security interest, or at least result 28

1 in additional litigation. Further, defendant has not described any harm resulting from continued 2 pendency. Therefore, the court will deny defendant's motion to expunge lis pendens.

3 IV. Conclusion

4 Accordingly,

5 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED that defendant's motion to 6 dismiss and to expunge lis pendens, (doc. # 9), be, and the same hereby is, DENIED.

7 DATE July 6, 2015.
